

DILATION

We recommend that patients have a dilated eye exam at least periodically to facilitate the presence of eye disease. Dilation has been the gold standard to detect eye disease. However, dilation can create sensitivity to light and blurred vision at near for several hours. Some patients may need to have their eye dilated also depending upon the nature of the problem.

() I have read and understand the above, and agree to dilation today.

() I have read and understand the above, and decline to dilation today.
